Biographical Information

John Andrew Boehner was born November 17, 1949 in Reading, Ohio to Mary Anne (Hall) and Early Henry Boehner. He is the second oldest of twelve siblings in a Catholic family of German descent. He graduated from Archbishop Moeller High School in Cincinnati in 1968. He enlisted in the US Navy in 1968 but was shortly thereafter discharged for medical reasons. He worked several jobs to pay tuition while attending the evening college at Xavier University (Cincinnati, Ohio) beginning in 1971. In 1973, he married Debbie Gunlack. He graduated in 1977 with a degree in business administration. After graduation, Boehner worked at Nucite Sales, a plastics & packaging company, and eventually became president of the company.

John Boehner has stated that he became a Republican in the late 1970s, inspired by Ronald Reagan. Boehner's political career began in 1981, when he successfully ran for the Board of Trustees of Union Township, Ohio. He served on that body 1981-1984, including as president in 1984. He was then elected a member of the Ohio House of Representatives, 57th district and served in it from 1985 to 1990. Boehner was elected to the United States Congress in 1990 and assumed office on January 3, 1991 as the Representative of the 8th District of Ohio. He served as a member of the House of Representatives from 1991 to 2015. In his first term in congress, Boehner was one of the "Gang of Seven," a group of freshman Republican Representatives who advocated strongly for congressional reforms on such issues as internal spending. Most notably, the group was vocal about the House Bank Scandal that broke in 1991 and the House Post Office Scandal that broke in 1992.

During these early years, Boehner also joined the campaign to ratify the 27th Amendment to the United States constitution, which states that any time congress votes to raise members' own pay, the change cannot take effect until after the next election. After ratification in 1992, Boehner tried to stop congressional cost-of-living adjustments (sometimes called COLAs), arguing they were unconstitutional once the 27th Amendment was passed. The result was the Boehner v. Anderson lawsuit, which Boehner lost.

In 1994, Boehner worked closely with Newt Gingrich on the drafting of the Contract with America, a Republican congressional platform for the 1994 midterm elections in which the Republicans gained the majority in congress for the first time since the 1950s. Boehner's Chief of Staff, Barry Jackson, was heavily involved in the publicity campaign for the Contract with America signing event on September 27, 1994.

Boehner served as Republican Conference Chair from January 1995 to January 1999, the fourth-highest ranking position in the House Republican Conference. In that position, he helped shape congressional Republican platforms, strategy, and messaging. He was also involved in Boehner v. McDermott, a lawsuit resulting from an event his office designated “Tapagate.” In 1996 private citizens intercepted and recorded a phone call between John Boehner, Newt Gingrich, and several other members of Republican leadership. The private citizens gave the recording to Democratic Representative James McDermott, who then shared it with the press to shine a light on how Gingrich and Republican leadership was handling (or mishandling) an ethics investigation. Boehner (whose cell phone had been intercepted) sued McDermott for sharing a private phone call. The lawsuit was finally settled in 2008, with the ruling that McDermott had violated federal wiretapping law and owed damages to Boehner.

Boehner lost re-election for Conference Chair in 1999, at the same time Newt Gingrich was ousted as Speaker of the House of Representatives. From 2001 to 2006 he served as Chair of the Education and the Workforce Committee. During that time, he helped architect, sponsor, and pass H.R. 1, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001. The act reflected Boehner’s position as a longtime advocate for school choice.

In February 2006, Boehner was elected House Majority Leader. When the Democratic Party regained control of the House, he served as House Minority Leader (January 2007-January 2011). In these leadership roles, he shaped Republican congressional strategy and messaging. In January 2011, he was elected and sworn in as the 53rd Speaker of the United States House of Representatives. He was re-elected Speaker in 2013 and 2015, but also faced challenges to his speakership from members of Congress in his own party, particularly the House Freedom Caucus, who argued that Boehner was not conservative enough. During that time, he was able to end and ban the practice of congressional earmarks, often called “pork barrel” spending. Also during that time, along with Minority Leader Nancy Pelosi, he invited Pope Francis to address a joint session of Congress on September 24, 2015, the first papal visit to Congress in United States history. Shortly after that visit, he announced his intention to resign from Congress, and resigned at the end of October 2015.

He joined the lobbying firm Squire Patton Boggs in late 2016, and as of September 2022, he served as a Senior Strategic Advisor. He published a memoir of his time in the House, especially as Speaker, in April 2021 titled On the House. Xavier University awarded Boehner a degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa, in 2006 and the Charles P. Gallagher Leadership Medallion to Boehner in 2016.

Processing Information

The collection was donated to UASC, Xavier University with a complete inventory supplied by the donor and his office staff. The box inventories were verified by UASC staff against folder contents. The majority of the records were removed from their original office file folders and housed in archival-quality housing. UASC staff retained original folder labels in the majority of cases. For those folders found without titles, archivists supplied titles. Materials were also removed from three-ring binders and rehoused in their original order in archival-quality folders. Some materials were preservation photocopied depending on their original physical condition.

Oversize items and published bound materials were separated for storage. When found among paper records, audiovisual materials were removed from original folders and housed separately.

Digital image files (clippings and photographs) were transferred from external storage drives to secure archives electronic storage by UASC staff.

The collection originally contained a large quantity of newspapers. Major newspapers that Xavier University Library has digital access to have been deaccessioned and a list of these items has been retained. Newspapers and magazines that Xavier University Library does not have access to were retained in the collection. UASC staff assessed these newspapers for relevancy to John Boehner and only articles featuring him were retained. Materials deaccessioned included commentary sections, editorials, sports, and news articles not related to John Boehner.

Scope and Contents

The John Boehner Papers span from 1929 to 2021, with the bulk of the material from 1989 to 2015. The papers are organized into six series: Series 1, Office Administrative Records; Series 2, Personal and Political Papers; Series 3, Legislative Files; Series 4, Press and Media Records; Series 5, Political Campaign Records; and Series 6, Publications.

Papers contain office records in a variety of formats created and maintained by John Boehner and his staff that reflect the structure and functions of the U.S. House of Representatives, the functions and relationships of leadership within the Republican Party, and information about Speaker John Boehner and the matters with which he dealt. The records document official, political, legislative, administrative, and press and media activities of Speaker Boehner and his office. They contain materials gathered and maintained by Speaker Boehner from various sources for research and reference. The papers also include campaign records and artifacts.

The papers include legislative files, especially legislative background research but also including “dear colleague” letters, position papers, and correspondence with other legislators; press clippings, photographs, and videotaped TV appearances; staff weekly reports are included for years 1995-1999 and 2002-2004; Boehner’s daily schedule is included for years 1991-1995; committee leadership and party leadership files reflect the functions of Boehner’s changing role in Congress and the Republican Party, including strategy conversations and briefings. Other significant groups of the papers are John Boehner’s voting record, campaign materials including opinions surveys of voters in Ohio’s 8th district from 1989 to 2015, and newspaper clippings from papers based in and near the Ohio 8th congressional district from 1989 to 2016. Audiovisual materials are included throughout the collection and are mostly recordings of press appearances and special events, House floor coverage of speeches given by Boehner, and a few campaign advertisements. Photographs are also found throughout the collection (both prints and digital files), mostly of appearances and special events.

Other than a very small number of constituent and project files, the papers do not include case work files, issue mail, or other records relating to constituent services received by Boehner’s office or information about casework performed by the office.

The collection is highly interconnected; files related to a particular topic may be found in more than one location.

Sub-Series 1.3 Constituent Services and District Projects, 1991-1995

Scope and Contents

The sub-series 1.3 includes a very small number of constituent correspondence files from Representative Boehner's first term in congress. They appear to fit the definition of casework as "a congressional office's efforts to help an individual solve a specific problem with a federal or state agency." [1] However, this small number of files is not representative of all casework Boehner's office would have assisted with. Two of the files are in reference to military service concerns. They contain letters from members and family members of two National Guard Units from Ohio stationed abroad after Operation Desert Storm and document Boehner's (successful) efforts to bring them home. Six of the files seem to have been initiated by letters from individuals concerned about a personal problem with a federal agency or federal legislation such as pension benefits, overtime and employment, or insurance. These files also include responses to John Boehner from other federal agencies he had contacted on behalf of these individuals.

Also in this sub-series, district project files document instances where Boehner was intervening on behalf of a corporation (business or nonprofit) or municipality trying to solve a problem or issue with a federal agency. They contain mostly correspondence with some notes and press clippings used to research the issues. The nature of the work documented in these files is the same as that in the constituent casework files. The Representative was serving as intermediary between federal government bodies and his constituents, but in this case the constituents were businesses or municipalities rather than individuals.

Series 2: Personal and Political Papers

Scope and Contents

This series includes all personal papers within the collection, such as personal correspondence, photographs, and memorabilia. It also contains materials related to the Speaker's political journey and goals, including activism to reform Congress from within and materials created through Boehner's time in Republican Party Leadership as Republican Party Conference Chair, Majority Leader, Minority Leader, and Speaker of the House of Representatives such as working documents, correspondence, party strategy documents, and dear colleague letters. Memorabilia are also included in the Personal Papers sub-series.

Some content in this series does relate to legislative issues, even though they were created through party leadership and political activities. Researchers may wish to review Series 3: Legislative Files in addition to this series.

Sub-Series 2.1: Congressional Reform Papers, 1982 - 1996

Scope and Contents

Congressional Reform Papers were kept separate from general legislative activity files and focused on a few discrete initiatives. This sub-series contains working documents, proposals, issue briefs, position statements, investigation reports, press releases, and Dear Colleague memos related to Boehner's congressional reform efforts in his early years in congress. They document the Gang of Seven, the Hamilton-Gradison Committee on reforming congressional committee structure, the House Bank Scandal, the House Post Office Scandal, and the effort to reform the House restaurant. The sub-series also contains materials created through Boehner's support of the campaign to ratify the 27th Amendment to the Constitution, which restricted congressional pay raises, including reproductions of state ratification certificates, press releases, and correspondence. Finally, there are documents from the Boehner v. Anderson lawsuit, through which Boehner tried to stop congressional cost-of-living adjustments (sometimes called COLAs), arguing they were unconstitutional once the 27th Amendment was passed.
