The Matthew McCormick Cincinnati Investment Symposium and Economic Outlook

February 14, 2025 | Cintas Center

Heading into its eighth year, the Matthew McCormick Investment Symposium began as a way to foster connections among Xavier students and the Greater Cincinnati financial community. The event has grown considerably – still retaining its original purpose while extending its reach to become a regional summit for discourse on money management, financial planning, and economics.

For 2025, the Williams College of Business at Xavier University has again engaged Beacon Economics, LLC to provide a special report on economic inequality trends in Cincinnati; highlighting connections to Xavier's Jesuit mission of promoting justice, service, and the dignity of all people. The founder of Beacon will share an Economic Outlook and a presentation of the findings from the special report.

A Founder's Legacy

The Symposium honors the late Matthew D. McCormick – a Xavier graduate who, through his business acumen and passion for mentoring others, made a considerable impact on the Greater Cincinnati investment community. Matthew spent more than a decade as Vice President, Principal and Portfolio Manager at Bahl & Gaynor Investment Counsel. Matthew was a regular contributor to national media outlets including Bloomberg, CNBC, The Wall Street Journal and Fox Business News. He served on many prestigious boards including Xavier's President's Advisory Council and Xavier's Williams College of Business Finance Board of Executive Advisors.
